In Africa, China values party-to-party ties for stronger political and economic relations

African countries with closer party-to-party relations with China’s Communist Party also tend to enjoy stronger economic relations with the Asian economic giant, analysts say. Since the end of the Covid-19 pandemic, the Communist Party of China (CPC) has held a flurry of meetings – either online or in person, in China or in Africa – with African political parties to reboot political and economic relations. The Communist Party maintains ties with more than 100 political parties across Africa – although not in eSwatini, which recognises Taiwan. South China Morning Post.

South Africa expects G20 to facilitate cooperation

The G20 summit in Rio de Janeiro is expected to facilitate international trade and address challenges facing the world, including strengthening global governance and multilateralism, South African officials and experts said. Ronald Lamola, South Africa’s minister of international relations and cooperation, made the remarks while briefing the media in Pretoria on Nov 12 about the implementation of South Africa’s foreign policy. Lamola said it is expected that the heads of state and government approve the agreements negotiated throughout the year and point out ways of dealing with global challenges. China Daily.

Morocco’s High-Speed Rail Project Gains Momentum with Chinese Firm

A Chinese firm outbid a French rival to secure a significant portion of Morocco’s High-Speed Rail Project. The China Overseas Engineering Corporation (Covec) emerged victorious with a competitive $135 million bid. This was reported by the railway transport news portal Railway Supply. Covec’s proposal was 21% lower than the $174 million bid submitted by French competitor NGE Contracting. This strategic pricing secured the contract to construct the rail section passing through Casablanca, Morocco’s economic capital. Railway magazine.

65 years of Guinea-China partnership: CDM's role in revolutionising mining and driving sustainable development

Guinea and China celebrated a historic milestone on October 4, 2024, as they commemorated 65 years of the reestablishment of their diplomatic relations. This enduring partnership, a cornerstone in sub-Saharan Africa, has thrived through collaboration in critical sectors such as education, health, energy, infrastructure, and mining. Among these, mining stands out as a transformative force, spurred by the significant influx of Chinese investments over the last two decades. From 2008 to 2017, China's involvement was embodied by major players such as Chalco, China Power Investment (CPI), and the Compagnie de Développement des Mines Internationales (CDM). Al Circle.
